

Place the character discs on the monkey in the correct places. Use the clues to help you.

On a piece of paper, draw a picture of yourself and then write the characters for your eyes, ears, nose, mouth and hand.

Read and follow the stroke order card.

Clues

The snow monkey is a primate. Primates include monkeys and apes. Humans are apes, so we are also primates.

Sight is very important to the monkeys and they have two large forward facing eyes which can judge distance and depth just like us. The snow monkey also sees in colour. Their hands are very like ours with four fingers and a thumb.

Their feet are different to ours because they are very similar to their hands. They have five toes but the big toe acts like a thumb. This means they can hold and grip with both their hands and feet.
